NEW YORK OFFICE.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1884.

The latest market item this week, with a tolerable demand for loans. Local securities were more active, with higher prices obtainable for the Trusts and quiet for Gould-Sage stocks. New York exchange was nearly nominal. Sterling strong. Stocks in Wall street were irregular, but the changes were mostly merged into fresh broad rise—increased to the extent of 2 1-2 per cent—toward. The Chicago produce markets were less active, and prices averaged lower, with provisions and lights, and corn, the exception with Thursday's gain almost lost. Oil compared with Thursday's only about 1-2c higher, lard and the exchanges, wheat 1-2 cent lower, corn 1-2 cent lower, oats easy, rye 1-2 cent higher, barley steady, and flaxseed 1-2 cent higher.

The Ohio (N. Y.) Herald says the State canvassers have cut 10,000 votes cast for Cleveland County for Edwin H. Harris for "Judge" of the Supreme Court, but entered his being "Justice." Fortunately, the knowledge not of this great number of voters did not affect the result, as Judge Harris had no opponent, but it suggests one of the important points. It might have been a close election if some unscrupulous men might have been at large. In such case it would hardly have been fairer with evidence that 10,000 votes were disfranchised in the necessary manner than their vouchers were on paper, and the result whether the whole would not with the participation of the question have been brought before them. Certainly accurate to a system of the most willing kind. If anyone there should be no doubt was suggested to the correct prosecution of ballots, but such a Widespread disfranchisement of voters as this might, under other circumstances, be little less than an outrage upon the rights of the citizen.

Enquiries of the leaders from close to the Administration have been passed everywhere on the 4th inst., and in nearly every one of them the Republicans would hardly guess over the vote cast for the Presidential election, to several cases the gains brought about a change of city government. The Democratic leaders had been overpowered. That is not true. What it said was that the four counties of Shelby, Harrison, Madison, and Fayette, which in 1880 gave Blaine 1,000 majority this year gave Cleveland 1,000, a Democratic gain of 2,000 in four years, a considerable enough on the basis of the Fourth. That fact and it is supported from the statement of Judge Black of Tennessee, who, speaking of these counties, says:

> If we could get our Democratic preferred to the ballot-boxes in these counties and take the full registration as made by the Democratic registrars, we would have no trouble in carrying them by handsome majorities. But the Republicans have the control of the registration, and they will not register a Democrat if they can help it. They will not register a Democrat if they can help it. They will not register a Democrat if they can help it.

The grip with and by the Democratic Board of the Island election may lose about 1,000. Harrison's vote is 1,072,033 and Cleveland's vote is 1,000,000. Given the Republican vote to be there is 60,000 larger than the Democratic. In the Northern States Cleveland's vote is 1,000,000 and Harrison's 1,000,000. The Democratic vote in the North is therefore 60,000 larger than the Republican vote in a total of 2,000,000. The relative numbers of the Southern vote is an excess of the majorities of the several Southern States to one-eighth of the aggregate vote. Just to see, of the suppression of more than one-fifth of the Republican votes fully one-fifth of the Democratic did not register a vote in the State. Even in the Democratic States there were many who did not vote, and in Georgia, where there was no opposition, only 50,000 votes were cast, while there was still active opposition for the Republican electoral ticket in the entire State. There, who was not on well known as Harrison and not as strong a candidate, got in there this entire States 50,000 votes, although his antagonist was the popular and well known Tilden. Today, according to the Constitution, returns, there are not 45,000 Republican voters in those two States. Where are the missing 150,000? They are not dead, but they are terrorized, discouraged, and scared out by the Democratic "Solid South" of those two Union States, and merely withdrawing the Presidential vote of 1880, we get:

Majority	5,000
Thus the partially known figures on the Presidential return among the white legal registered majority and show that where the Constitutional Democratic shows Harrison 1,000 short they will register the ballot of a majority of the white people.
But these restrictive Gulf States were the fortresses and hiding-places to which the Democratic leaders fled in their rout. Here are the "official" returns from Alabama, Georgia, and Mississippi, and also the number of white and colored voters in those States, as shown by the census of 1880, to ascertain how creditably or the several

	Number of white voters	Number of colored voters	Majority	Majority all votes
Alabama	96,000	115,000	10,000	10,000
Mississippi	80,000	145,000	80,000	80,000
Georgia	95,000	725,000	100,000	100,000
Total	271,000	985,000	190,000	190,000

As the subject does not appear to be the preference, there was in the whole year a positive Democratic majority in these States of 10,000, where Cleveland is now entitled with 190,000. The Republican strength has increased fully 50 per cent since 1880, but, not counting anything for that, we simply submit to the Democratic press that where they have disfranchised with their consent and made terms with their voters. They are simply fattening over upon the 190 ballots between the soldiers and the non-soldiers Democratic majorities, which are living proof even this enforcement of law.

The last enumeration made no approach early to this enrollment. Without a grant of a franchise to citizen both low to the 5th, which soldiers, during made a beginning to and went large in a few years. There, when the enlistment was fairly under way, to get to the figures and waited for the Democratic majority to begin to fall off as given there was not a man to be had at any price. Then the men of both parties rushed to the colors in the vicinity of the Democratic majority in Texas, where the Democratic majority is 70,000, where the Democratic majority is 70,000, where the Democratic majority is 70,000

Is struggle in favor of PROTECTION. Now, don't you fear-blathers spoken; we're not talking politics. WE ARE booming OVERCOATS and ULSTERS in great shape, and it's your ladies we would protect from Manitoba waves, Dakota blizzards, etc., etc., naturally concluding you know best how to protect your own industries and pocketbooks.

We tell our salesmen "a good thing sold at a reasonable profit brings the purchaser back" to trade again, while a poor piece of goods on which the dealer even loses money almost inevitably loses the customer "at the same time." Therefore it grows on us to urge with increasing earnestness

HISTORY OF FRENCH ART.

A WORK STUDIED OVER HERE AND WELCOMED OVER THERE.

Mrs. Cheetham's History of French Painting from the Earliest to the Latest Practice—A Volume That Is Clear for the Student and Satisfying to Connoisseurs—The Living Exponents of French Art—What the Authors and Publishers Are Doing.

"Paris is the capital of Art," writes Albert Wolff, the grumpiest of living French critics, "and no one there expects his two sous to which to measure his power-glass." "Its supremacy survives political fluctuations. It has put the other ten commandments to established European movement. It was art that bore the shining name of the great city far beyond that signal that outlined the boundaries of Paris to her extinct enemy. The siege of Paris had scarcely ended when foreign hordes turned back the capital to find the masterpieces of the French school of which Europe and America had been deprived during 1870. The artist fraternities took the lead in recommencing."

How far from exaggeration and into these the declaration really is may be gathered from Mrs. Cheetham's "History of French Painting from the Earliest to the Latest Practice." It is a royal octavo volume of 600 pages, admirably printed by Scribners, and reproductions of modern representative paintings, the prints drawn from the color Rembrandt, in Paris, Professor Ziem, Charles Le Roux, Delpech, the Oliver, Alexander Dignat, Jacques Wolfers, C. L. Daux, J. Vacon, J. P. Laurens, J. L. Gérôme, J. J. Benjamin-Constant, J. J. Lefèvre, J. Bastien-Lepage, and P. Besnard among. The volume gives also an account of the French Academy of Painting, its history, schools of instruction, and regulations. The list of subscribers shall assuring the Academy, France and England, and enable students to pursue special departments further.

The aim of the work is to be successful for sound sense, color, comprehensiveness, and discretion. In execution no doubt proves it to other for the student, it is gratifying to the connoisseur. The great Book's chief merit is its impartiality. Mrs. Cheetham is not a writer to be swayed by any fashion of the hour. Many drive for originality, for novelty, for the sensational, for the eccentric, but she keeps the even tenor of her way, and the result is a work of permanent value. Its impartiality extends to the works of living painters, whose merits are discussed with the same judicial calmness as those of the dead masters. The author of "The Great French Writers" is not afraid of the small details of history, but she never loses sight of the great movements which underlie them. Her account of the Revolution of 1848, for example, is a model of clear, concise, and comprehensive writing. Her account of the Second Empire, with its artistic effort of Napoleon III., is equally good. The chapters on the Commune, with a separate portion of the Imperial Academy, Paris Salons, Academies, Exhibitions, Painting Societies, Art Schools, Art Journals, Art Museums, and Art Collections, are full of information, and will be found of great value to students and lovers of art. The illustrations, which are numerous, are well chosen and well executed. The frontispiece, a portrait of Ingres, is a fine piece of work. The volume is a valuable addition to the literature of art, and will be found a useful companion by all who are interested in the subject.

The Talk About Cheap Books.

This is the season of the year when suddenly dry-goods stores begin to sell books, and to advertise them as wonderfully cheap. Fictitious retail prices are paraded, and by contrast their prices are made to appear very low, while in reality they are not so. Of one thing the customer can be sure: If there are any worthless books they will be found in the dry-goods stores. All books worth having will be found as a rule cheaper at our store than in dry-goods or notion stores; and so such tempting variety is offered anywhere. All good books advertised we have. Everyone is invited to examine for himself.
